ICT Enabled Teaching-Learning

Introduction:

"ICT" is the Information and Communication Technologies. "ICT in Education" means "Teaching and Learning with ICT".

ICTs stand for information and communication technologies and are defined, for the purposes of this primer, as a "diverse set of technological tools and resources used to communicate, and to create, disseminate, store, and manage information." These technologies include computers, the Internet, broadcasting technologies (radio and television), and telephony. Moreover, different technologies are typically used in combination rather than as the sole delivery mechanism. This include use of print, recorded audio and video, broadcast radio and television, and audioconferencing technologies.

Worldwide research has shown that ICT can lead to improved student learning and better teaching methods. A report proved that an increase in student exposure to educational ICT through curriculum integration has a significant and positive impact on student achievement, especially in terms of "Knowledge-Comprehension", "Practical skill" and "Presentation skill" in subject areas such as mathematics, science, and social study.

Educational ICT tools can be divided into three categories:
Input source, Output source and Others.

INPUT SOURCE			OUTPUT SOURCE		OTHERS
Visualiser/ Document Camera	PC	State/ Tablet	Projector	Interactive Whiteboard	Digital camera	Switcher
Student response system	Application Software		Display: Monitor, TV..etc.		Digital Recorder	Other technology

MAIN ADVANTAGES OF ICT TOOLS FOR EDUCATION

- Images can easily be used in teaching and improving the retentive memory of students.
- Teachers can easily explain complex instructions and ensure students' comprehension.
- Teachers are able to create interactive classes and make the lessons more enjoyable, which could improve student attendance and concentration.

The ICT can be used in the following areas:

- Teaching
- Diagnostic Testing
- Remedial Teaching

- Evaluation
- Psychological Testing
- Development of Virtual Laboratory
- Online Tutoring
- Development of Reasoning & Thinking
- Instructional Material Development

A Romance of a Busy Broker is about how a person can immerse himself so much into his business that he leaves little room for any other aspect of his life. In this story, Harvey is described as a robot. He and all the people who work for him are described as machines.

As students had a digital access to information and communications technology, it enhanced and optimized the delivery of information. Therefore, being the students of first year they enjoyed the learning through different teaching methods.

Role-play is a form of experiential learning. Students are assigned to perform the roles through a play 'Arms and the Man' by G.B. Shaw. Students enacted 'Act II : Scene II' of the play. This role-play is a group activity taking on a role of character.

This act was carried out by 5 special students as they are learning 'Drama' paper. Activity involved students by imagining the perspective of a person in a situation and then behaving and enacting.

Outcome: Students developed understanding and applying the content to real world situations.

Role Play

Instructions:

Role-playing is an activity in which students assume the role of another person and act it out. In a role play, students are usually given an open-ended situation in which they must make a decision, resolve a conflict, or act out the conclusion to an unfinished story. Role-playing is designed to promote student empathy and understanding of others. By acting out the role of another individual it is easier to see others' points of view, including how other people think and feel. Role-playing can give students the opportunity to learn behavior appropriate for various situations. Role-playing is also useful for developing critical thinking, decision making, and assertiveness skills.

Procedure:

1. Selection of the Role Play Situation: There are a number of situations which lend themselves to the use of role play. These situations include individual dilemmas (e.g., dealing with a pushy salesperson, observing a crime, or testifying in court) and conflict-resolution situations (e.g., a tenant negotiating with a landlord over the terms of a lease or a police officer confronting a suspected shoplifter). Role-playing can be used to deal with a specific issue or problem; for example, role-playing could be used to discuss whether or not adopted persons should be given access to records that reveal the name and whereabouts of their natural parents. Finally, role plays are useful for developing student skills as an interviewer, negotiator, assertive consumer, investigator, or decision maker.
2. Preparation and Warm-Up: Students should be told the situation or problem and instructed as to the various roles. If role-playing is new to the class, "warm-up" or introductory activities may be helpful. For example, students might be asked to role play greeting a long-lost friend, or to role-play the way someone who had just won a large sum of money would act.
3. Select Participants: Students can either be assigned roles or the teacher can ask for volunteers. Role plays may be conducted in front of the entire class or a number of simultaneous role plays could be conducted by dividing the class into small groups. Students who do not participate in the role play should act as observers.
4. Conduct the Role Play: Direct students to act out the role the way they think someone faced with the same situation would act in real life. The teacher should not interrupt the role play; however, if the students need some help in getting started the teacher should assist the students. After conducting the role-play it is sometimes useful to have students reverse roles or to conduct the same role play using different participants. For example, two students might role play a confrontation between a youth and a police officer. After conducting the role play once, the student who acted as the youth could assume the role of the police officer and vice versa.
5. Debrief: The role-play activity should be debriefed and evaluated. This is an opportunity for both the participants and the observers to analyze the role play and to discuss what happened and why. Typical debriefing questions include the following:
  - How did you feel about the role play and each of the various roles?

- Was the role play realistic? How was it similar to or different from real life? Was the problem solved? If so, how? If not, why not?
- What, if anything, could have been done differently? What other outcomes were possible?
- What did you learn from the experience?

Constructing a role-play:

Role-plays can be simple or complex, short or long and can be adapted to suit the needs of what is being taught or explored. If it is a simple skills being practiced we can set the scene quickly and let the participants practice.

The key steps in constructing a role-play are:

- a) Define Aims and Objectives (is it to practice skills, explore concepts etc.)
- b) Define setting/placement
- c) Define clear role descriptors and what they will say (at least an outline)
- d) Define time limit
- e) Define observer tasks (if any)
- f) Define ground rules of safety and feedback
- g) Define debrief agenda
- h) Define facilitator tasks

Running a role-play:

As a teacher/trainer or a facilitator, we need to keep the time (and also prepare to call time out if things get out of hand!) We need to be observant and we need to take notes for feedback. We can ask observers to do the same. The feedback should be objective and based on observed facts.

If it's a group ensure the participants in the role-play are physically separated from the observers and are set close enough to be observed but far enough to give a semblance of a stage.

Be watchful for any participants going off the script and becoming too inventive- this may hijack the agreed agenda and also confuse the other participant(s) this is why very clear descriptors for the role and what the role has to say will be useful.

Feedback and Debrief Principles:

It is better to follow the simple rules of feedback- where the participants are asked how it went, what emotions they experienced and one is playing a professional and the other a client – to ask each person's internal emotions and how the other made them feel. If an assessment then the participant should be able to describe what went well and what didn't go well. The groups will then give positive and constructive feedback.

It is often useful after debrief to summarise what was gained- by asking each participant for their points learnt or understood. It will be usually quite an assortment of learning points that shows how each role-play can stimulate several strands of learning beyond the original aims and objectives. Debrief needs to be succinct and clear.

It is always better to have an ice-breaker or a chat about an unrelated topic for a few minutes to break people out of role so any negative emotions or aggressions can dissipate. As role-play is very powerful people may end up staying 'in role' for a while after causing disruption to the group or the learning task.

Briefing of: Experiential [learning] Methodology

Experiential [learning] is a philosophy and methodology in which educators purposefully engage with students in direct experience and focused reflection in order to increase knowledge, develop skills, and clarify values" Experiential learning is also referred to as learning through action, learning by doing, learning through experience, and learning through discovery and exploration, all which are clearly defined by these well-known maxims. Unlike traditional classroom situations where students may compete with one another or remain uninvolved or unmotivated and where the instruction is highly structured, students in experiential learning situations cooperate and learn from one another in a more semi-structured approach. Instruction is designed to engage students in direct experiences which are tied to real world problems and situations in which the instructor facilitates rather than directs student progress.

Group Discussion

Introduction:

Group discussion is an important activity in academic, business and administrative spheres. It is a systematic and purposeful interactive oral process. Here the exchange of ideas, thoughts and feelings take place through oral communication. The participants sit facing each other almost in a semi-circle and express their views on the given topic/issue/problem.

It helps to train the participants to discuss and argue about the topic given. It improves learner's thinking, listening and speaking skills. It also promotes his/her confidence level while expressing thoughts. It is an effective tool in problem solving, decision making and personality assessment. GD skills may ensure an academic success, popularity and good admission for pursuing quality higher education or job offer. Thus, it is important to be able to take part in a GD effectively and confidently. Participants should know how to speak with confidence, how to exhibit leadership skills and how to make the group achieve the goals.

Guidelines/Methodology for Group Discussion:

1. Choose any topic and opine the points that can be discussed in the given topic.
2. Divide the students into groups of 10. While a topic is under discussion by one group, other present students there must be instructed to observe the manner in which discussion is being conducted and group members are projecting their views.
3. Give them a topic for the group discussion. Teacher may introduce in brief the topic for discussion without giving his/her biased opinion or without being judgmental about the whole issue.
4. At least 20 minutes should be given for group discussion.
5. The group should not deviate from the topic of discussion.
6. Students can take on various roles during the group discussion.

Some of these roles are:

- a. The initiator: one who initiates the discussion is called as Initiator. It is crucial to give the right direction to the group discussion. The person who starts the group discussion should be very sure of his/her understanding of the topic.
- b. Moderator: The Moderator is the person who tells the group about the need to reach a conclusion and also avoid the discussion from deviating into other topics.
- c. Gatekeeper: In every group, there are members who may be aggressive and or some may maintain reticence. Basically, maintaining a balance between them is crucial task. The gatekeeper motivates people to participate in the discussion and also helps the aggressive ones make room for others.
- d. Summarizer: This person summarizes the valid points discussed by the group. This is generally done at the end of the discussion but at times people keep summarizing every few minutes.

GD is important for improving following skills:

- Communication skills
- Interpersonal Skills
- Leadership Skills
- Motivational Skills
- Team Building Skills
- Analytical /Logical Skills
- Reasoning ability
- Different Thinking
- Initiative Skill
- Assertiveness
- Flexibility
- Creativity Skill
- Critical Thinking Skill
- Ideal Seating Arrangement for Group Discussion:

Annual Planning of Group – Discussion Teaching Method Selection of and Topics for Group Discussion (GD)
